Homework

Please work with your child on some family FUN in disguising the turkey pattern coming home today in your child's home communication folder. Use as much creativity as you can – see examples/directions attached to the turkey pattern. Turkeys are due back by Friday, November 8th. We will each get the opportunity to share our turkey in disguise with the class and we ALWAYS love seeing and celebrating our friend's ideas!

Happy Disguising!

= MATH

We have been working through Module 2: Addition and subtraction relationships.

We have been working on understanding subtraction and solving subtraction number stories. Just as we did with addition we've learned and practiced many different strategies so we may find the best for each of us.

Strategies we've modeled and practiced are: representing with concrete objects (cubes), taking away from the whole, counting back on a number path and using our fingers to help us solve.

Subtraction can be more challenging than addition because the given part (or known) part is embedded with the total.
