RECOGNITIONS

Kelsey Chrisman - Engagement Expert - Kelsey has engaged wellness champions, school administration, teachers, secretaries, food service, custodial/maintenance staff, parents, grandparents, and students! She has been able to successfully get schools that were not currently engaged not only participating in the program but excited about it. She has had volunteers for running programs, Walking School Buses, cooking clubs, and school gardens. Once upon a time wellness committee meetings were sparse but thanks to Kelsey's leadership, she packs the room!

Justin Reynolds - The 2018 Courageous Champion award recognizes an individual who goes above and beyond in their school. Whether it is starting a new program, serving as a role model for their student's other staff, or always being there to jump in and help out, this person plays an integral role building a healthier future for their students.

Rhiannon McKee - Rhiannon was named the Missouri Association of Student Councils Northeast District Advisor of the Year. Her STUCO students say: "She proves each day that true leaders inspire greatness in others."

DIFFERENCE MAKERS

Jacob Adams - Jacob has gone above and beyond to make the construction process smooth for all colleagues and students at Jefferson City High School.

Katie Bax - Angie Green, parent of a student, expressed how impressed she is by Ms. Bax teaching style and passion she shows for teaching. She is a brilliant teacher the district should be proud to have her.

Katie Epema - created a PAT Facebook page and Twitter account to share information and the mission of Parents as Teachers. Through her work with Jefferson City area families, Katie witnessed a major need in the community that one in three low-income families in America can't afford enough diapers for their children each month. Access to clean diapers improves babies' overall health, prevents medical expenses and is directly correlated to maternal depression.

December 2018

Elementary Department:

1. ELA Pilot

The second ELA resource pilot ends December 7th, and the ELA Resource Fair will take place next week for all elementary teachers to get a chance to preview potential resources and talk to teachers that piloted materials in their classroom. The resource selection will take place prior to Christmas break and planning for ordering resources and scheduling professional development will begin.

2. Data Teams Training

John Harrison with ICLE was back in town this month supporting data teams at both Southwest and Pioneer Trail. All schools, with the exception of South Elementary, have had two full-days of professional training and support with data team cycles from ICLE leaders. Dr. Harrison and Dr. Ledet will be back in the spring for two more site visits at each K-8 building.

3. Moreau Heights Check Presentation

It was a wonderful day on November 26th at Moreau Heights! A $10,000 gift was made by an anonymous donor for use in Cindy Connelly's special education classroom! It was great to see the joy and surprise on Cindy's face as Karen Enloe, from the JCPS Foundation, presented the check!

4. Two New Lab Classrooms- Coming January 2019

We are very excited that our two new lab classroom teachers are ready to open their classrooms so that visitors may come and learn about effective teaching, management and processes in a balanced literacy classroom! Dustin Jeffries, fifth grade teacher at Pioneer Trail, and Susan Isaacs, first grade teacher at Callaway Hills, have been working with their instructional coaches and Dr. Julie Schaefer during this first semester to hone their teaching practices to match the JCPS instructional model. We will begin taking applications this spring for second and fourth grade lab classroom teachers for the 2019 school year!

Secondary Department:

1. Seven Period Traditional Schedule

Over recent months, I have met with JCHS leadership, CCHS leadership, and our district Curriculum Coordinators to discuss 9-12 programming. During one of the meetings our conversation took a turn when the question was asked about where we are with our master schedule and whether or not we were considering the transition to a 7-period schedule. Since my arrival in July of 2017, I have had sporadic conversations gauging the temperature of such a change. My biggest motivator was all about the numbers. By going to a traditional 7-period day with 50-minute periods, we would gain approximately six weeks of instruction for a one-credit course. By the end of our conversation on that particular day, the 9-12 leadership was convinced making the move to a 7-period schedule was the right thing to do. Although it is common to vet such a major change through committee work over a period of time, the secondary administrative leadership team is convinced this is the right decision for our district, especially for our students. We recognize November-December is later than we would like in making this particular decision, but making the right decision trumped the timing. Here is a list of some of the “whys” behind our decision:

- Concerns from teachers expressing a severe lack of time in teaching the curriculum and teaching it well (pacing is too fast for many students / We will gain approximately six weeks of instructional time for 1-credit courses like Algebra I and almost all cores
- We will avoid gaps of instruction in sequential courses like ELA 1 & 2, Spanish 1 & 2, etc. (some sequential courses were separated by as much as a year with block scheduling)
- The impact of an absence on missed instruction is greater in a block schedule and more difficult for students to make up
- The 7-period schedule will provide greater flexibility in meeting student course requests
- The 7-period schedule will address student engagement and learning stamina
- The 7-period schedule will eliminate the 27-week AP course design and align better to the College Board’s new testing protocol / Students enrolled in these courses will not be forced into a 9-week class
- Student absences, for activities or otherwise, will have less of an impact
- Difficult to schedule transfer students, about 90% of which come from a traditional schedule / Even if courses matchup, curriculum pacing is different

2. JCPS History Trivia

November Question: What year did Capitol Caroling start?

November Answer: 1938 / This year will be the 81st year for Capitol Caroling. Milton Bennett began the tradition in the late 1930s - and one of the students in the early programs was Carl Burkel, who later became an orchestra and choir teacher and sustained this tradition for the many years that he was the director at Jefferson City High School.

December Question: What year did Nichols Career Center open? Who was the Center named after and what position/s did this person hold within the District?

Human Resources Department:

1. Equity Council

Target Groups have been formed for our Equity Council. As an outcome of our initial meeting, three focus areas have been identified:

- Access (in the doors) & Success Student Achievement as it relates to attendance, behaviors & factors that impact students’ ability to be present and to stay in school
- Community Engagement - efforts to diversify staff and build a collaborative community to support students and staff
- Education/Relationship (how do we support staff) - staff development that focuses on creating learning environments where students can succeed

The Target Groups will be answering the following questions to share with the entire council at our next meeting on January 10.;

1. Identify what success looks like within your target area
2. Determine steps on how we can achieve that success
3. Identify the systemic areas / barriers and where to begin having courageous conversations. Who needs to be a part of those conversations?
4. Identify areas where we can improve outcomes immediately

2. Human Resources

The HR Staff recently attended an HR Law Seminar. It was a great opportunity for us to learn about new legal updates and to focus on putting clear and defensible processes in place.

3. Evaluations

We are continuing to streamline our evaluation processes for all staff. We are currently working on an online evaluation tool for support staff. Throughout the semester, we have been working with building principals on walkthrough forms that meet their needs for classroom observations in their respective buildings. We have made many adjustments to the evaluation processes and tools this semester. We appreciate everyone's cooperation, patience and flexibility. Our goal is to have an evaluation tool that is easy to use and one that is reflective of our district and building goals.

Happy Holidays from the Human Resources Staff!

Special Education Department:

1. This month the special service department completed several professional development activities. On November 7th, all secondary special education staff completed the final training hosted by the Thompson Center regarding the effective use of para support. In addition, Bridget Frank and Caryl Smarr held a training on November 8th for secondary administrators regarding discipline of IEP students.
2. Elementary special education teachers continued their series of trainings and coaching sessions regarding data based writing instruction hosted by Dr Lembke from the University of Missouri.

Student Services Department:

November was a month of testing, preparing to test and analyzing test results. We tested reading with i-Ready and tracked the progress of the schools and district. Preparation and training for the fall end of course (EOC) tests also took place in November. Finally, preliminary test results from 1718 were released by the State. Since it was a new set of State assessments and standards in 17/18, we do not have enough information to have accurately gauge our performance, we are comparing building, district and State data to get a sense of overall progress.

Additionally, several key data reports were developed. For the high school, a Seal of Biliteracy report was developed and for elementary, we developed a Dyslexia screening report to help teachers. Finally, we had a brief Tableau training to learn how to use our new analysis tool. There will be additional training in December and a lengthier training in January. We are excited to begin rolling out reports as we use our newly acquired skills.

Technology Department:

1. New Firewall Pilot – Update

Joe informed the Board last month that we were considering moving forward with piloting a new firewall for the District due to issues and lack of a sense of urgency to resolve those issues by our present vendor. Over the course of the past month, we have been working to configure the new firewall so that the rules within it match our current firewall. The configuration is complete and we intend to swap firewalls over Christmas break and begin our pilot in January. If all goes as expected with the pilot, we will permanently switch to the new firewall over spring break in March.

2. AirServer with Chromebooks

Our District utilizes a product called AirServer to wirelessly display items from their mobile device through the PC in their rooms to present it via their projector/SmartBoard. Since the implementation of the Chromebooks, we have been experiencing intermittent issues with AirServer in some classrooms. The issues appear to be getting more frequent and more widespread. For this reason, Technology Department employees are investigating possible alternative solutions that would be more reliable for our teachers. We are currently in the discovery phase of this process. Once the team believes they have a couple viable solutions, we will perform an in-house evaluation of those products to determine if one of them will fit our needs. From there, I envision us having teachers put that product through its paces to ensure that it performs as they would expect in the classroom. If all goes well, we will then procure whatever that new solution is to alleviate the current frustrations they are experiencing with AirServer. I will keep the Board informed as we work through the evaluation, testing, and procurement process.

3. Mac to PC Migration - Update

The Mac to PC migration at North, East, West, South, and Thorpe Gordon Elementary schools were completed last week. Overall, the migrations at each of these schools went even better than what we had anticipated. There were a few small glitches with software discovered throughout the migration process. However, all of those issues have been alleviated and all of the migrated classrooms appear to be functioning optimally. Next on the list of classroom technology to address is both middle schools, JCHS, and Simonsen. We are currently taking a preliminary look at order of importance amongst those schools and the fiscal impact of migrating each. I will keep the Board informed as we move through this process.

CFO/COO UPDATE – 12/10/2018

Safety – The District has done a lot of work on ensuring drills are being performed in the buildings. The District has also spent a lot of money and time securing our buildings with secure vestibules and security cameras. One item that was missing in our safety program was a Crisis Management/Post Crisis Recovery Plan. Frank Underwood did a tremendous job and created such a plan for JCPS. November 27, 2018 Frank presented the plan and led a table top exercise on use of the plan. Most central office administrators and other key personnel from around the district participated in the event. The purpose was to gain familiarity with the plan, understand the ins and outs of the plan and what to do immediately following a crisis event. Continued training and additional tabletop exercises are planned.

All active shooter training will be completed by January 18, 2019 and only four schools are remaining to complete their training.

The District is evaluating visitor management systems so we have better control and knowledge of who is in our buildings. Three different systems have been piloted at Lawson Elementary. We are finalizing our evaluation for a possible district wide implementation.

Alertus is an emergency mass notification system. Should an emergency occur, the use of Alertus will provide notifications quickly and clearly using all of the District's existing infrastructure and technology, including desktop computers, PA systems, VoIP phones, digital signage, mobile devices and more. Installation was completed at West on November 9. Two successful drills utilizing this system have been performed with many positive comments. The plan is to continue to fine tune the system at West and begin installation at the rest of the buildings in the District.

Audit – A great deal of time and energy from the business office staff and the auditing firm goes into the completion of the audit. The Finance Committee met on November 28, 2018 to meet with the auditors for a preliminary review of the audit. Rick Gratza is the managing partner for our audit with Kerber, Eck, and Braeckel LLP and will be presenting to the full board at our regular December meeting.

Nutrition Services – Implementation of the online ordering system is now complete. All kitchen managers are placing their grocery and non-grocery orders using this system. Orders are then reviewed and sent directly to the vendor that was awarded the bid for each item. This process will improve efficiencies and reduce the occurrences of human error. It also gives us the tools we needed to track orders and deliveries.

Moreau Heights is set to begin Breakfast in the Classroom (BIC) as soon as school resumes after winter break. This should increase participation in breakfast, which should lower discipline issues and trips to the health room with students who have stomach issues because they skipped breakfast or did not have a healthy breakfast. Staff is planning to observe BIC at Eldon Public Schools on Monday December 10, 2018.

Facilities – The big news in the facility department is the retirement of Bob Weber. For the last 25 years Bob has done an outstanding job leading this department. He has seen a lot of change in the district and he provided a summary of all of the projects he has overseen during his tenure, which spans from the opening of the middle schools to the construction of Capital City High School. Bob will be truly missed. Please make sure to give him our thanks and well wishes as he retires.
